Abstract

Meghna Group of companies, one of the largest business groups in the country, started its operation in 1982 and has been operating successfully since then. Over the years the group has extended its Rolex replica business functionalities in different industry sectors with its several sister concerns contributing to the overall socio-economic development of the country.

Meghna Group is one of the largest multinational business firms in the world. Over the last decades, Shezan, Meghna, Kolson, Nocilla, Top, Wings, Popin, and Puro Bangladesh has been constantly bringing new and world-class products for the Bangladeshi people to remove the daily drudgery of life. Over FMCG use one or more of my products. It provides 8(Eight) brands and tries to mitigate all types of human demand by introducing new innovative products.

I have found out that Meghna Group uses different mixtures of 4Ps: product, price, place (distribution), and promotion as controllable tactical marketing tools to target and position its different consumer segments creating brand loyalty to its Eco-friendly and hygienic products. The company should ensure the eco- friendly, hygiene, and well-being of the consumers ensuring the highest quality of its brand, differentiate its pricing strategy, penetrate its brand into the rural markets with its business partners to boost its market share, develop alternative channels of distribution (online distribution) and set up a research department to get feedback of the customers following customer-oriented marketing strategies.

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Introduction

Only a lot of theoretical knowledge will be little important unless it is applicable in the practical life. RMBA program is a mixture of both the theoretical and practical knowledge. To fulfill this requirement, a student is required to obtain real life exposure in an organization and thereby gain demonstrable skills and expertise in the field and also an understanding of the organization. We need proper application of our academic knowledge to make it more fruitful. Such an application is made possible through internship. Internships an integral part of RMBA program, arranging for the students who have completed all academic courses required for RMBA. Students also have to submit a Thesis report on an assigned topic. I was placed in Meghna Group to complete my Thesis program under the supervision of two supervisors one is internal form the institute and another is from the organization. By consulting with my Thesis supervisor, it has been selected the topic "Sales Development process in Bangladesh: A Case Study on Meghna Group"."

1.2 Origin of the report

Sharmila Sikder, Lecturer, Department of Business Administration, Major in Marketing of Sonargaon University (SU) authorized writing of this research report. The report is a part of the course for the students of RMBA. It was submitted by me on 05th August 2022.

1.3 Background of the Study

FMCG products is now one of the most dynamic sectors of Bangladesh economy. For the last one decade, a basic change has been occurring in the Food & Beverage of the country. Meghna Group, a sister concern of Meghna Group is at present the main trader of food & Beverage products in Bangladesh. The company formerly known as Meghna Group, was founded in 1982 as the country's Shezan Juice,Kolson vermicelli,Macaroni Nocilla,Tang brand market in Bangladesh. It was established at the face of growing popularity of Meghna products with fast changing urban lifestyle and elevation of living standards as a whole. Meghna Group monopoly market in Bangladesh Kolson ,Shezan,Nocilla brand . The Export- substitute industry, Meghna Group plays an essential role as a significant import-substitution industry. The brand name of the company is'Meghna.Shezan.Kolson,Nocilla,Top.Wings,Hulk & Puro'

Meghna Group of companies, one of the largest business groups of the country, started its operation in 1982 and has been operating successfully since then. Over the years the group has extended its business functionalities in different industry sectors with its several sister concerns contributing to the overall socio-economic development of the country. A highly skilled and innovative professional team is engaged in Process Quality Control (PQC) of our production. We put our topmost priority on ensuring the best quality at each level of the production process in order to maintain international standards. We ensure factory compliances, collect raw materials under the strict supervision and standards from our own pool of suppliers. We have employed state of the art technology in processing our products and use 100% food graded packaging to ensure the best possible quality. Recently, we have attained "100% Halal certification" for our foods and drinks products from Halal Bangladesh Services (HBS). Along with our own popular brand name Meghna, we are also engaged in manufacturing & marketing of the products of world-famous brands like Shezan, Kolson, Nocilla. Under the franchise of famous Shezan International Limited, we manufacture and market Shezan products in our country. We also manufacture country's most popular Kolson Macaroni, Noodles and Vermicelli under the franchise of and technical collaboration with Kolson Food LLC (Dubai). Our high-quality products have earned a huge accolade in both the local and foreign markets. Apart from our food & beverage products, we have agro-based products, agro-processing, real estate, insurance, readymade garments replica, telecommunications and electronic media business. We have expanded our export market in Middle East, Australia, USA, UK, Nepal, Bhutan, Malaysia, Singapore and some African countries and continuously searching for opportunities to discover the potential markets for high quality products from Bangladesh. As they have no internship experience they have not been able to gain normal professional experience or establish networking system, which is importuning a job. So practical orientation positive development in professional area recognizing the importance of practical experience, Major in Marketing of Sonargaon University (SU) has introduced a three months' practical exposure as a part of the curriculum of RMBA. In such state of affairs, the present aiming at analyzing the experience of practical orientation related to Sales development activities of Meghna Group in Bangladesh.

1.3 Scope of the study

The report highlights the consumers' perception about the quality, customer service, and easy availability of Meghna Group.. It also tries to find out the factors affecting sales and prospects of Meghna Group. The discussion is limited to an identification of market position and problems of Meghna Group.

1.4 Objectives of the Study

1.5 Board Objective

The broad objectives of the study are to explore and to analyze the use or application of the 4Ps model of promotion as controllable tactical marketing tools in the marketing of eco-friendly and hygienic brand, Meghna Group products in Bangladesh.

Specific Objectives

With a view to optimize the broad objectives of the study, the specific objectives are as follows:

1. To identify the product strategy used for the Sales development of food & beverage products.Meghna Group.
2. To find out the pricing strategy used for the Sales development of Meghna Group.

3. To figure out the place/distribution strategy used for the Sales development of Meghna Group.
4. To find out the promotion strategy used for the marketing of Meghna Group.
5. To findout the gap between theoretical marketing mix strategy and Meghna Group sales development activities and to recommend suggestions for policy implication.

1.6 Methodology

This report has been prepared on the basis of experience gathered during the period of Thesis program. For Preparing undergone group discussion, collected data and interviewed some of the selected Dealer and retailers. I hope these criteria will be enough to find out a different picture of industrial performance of the Meghna Group products.

The study is basically exploratory in nature. The study has been conducted on the basis of collected primary and secondary sources of data and information. The sources of primary data are field survey. The study has targeted consumers and retailers of Meghna Group products in Dhaka city as population. But the population size was unknown due to not having any accurate sampling frame for the present study. As a result, convenience sampling technique has been used for selecting the sample size from consumers and retailers of Meghna Group products; 60 consumers and 50 retailers of Meghna Group have been selected from Utarra and Gulshan areas of Dhaka city as respondents. Face-to-face interview technique has been used to collect primary data and information through two separate sets of semi-structured questionnaires. Both five-point Like rt scale and rank order scale have been used in the questionnaires to collect and measure the primary data. SPSS software version 16 has been used for data analysis. Moreover, secondary data and information have been gathered and analyzed from various articles published inrefereed journals, published books, conference proceedings, published reports and web sites.

Data Collection

For our research purpose we need both primary and secondary data.

Primary Data:

There is lack of indepth study about the subject. As such, primary data is the building block of the research work. The data of this study were collected from the interview conducted among the selected respondents in Dhaka. The interview was conducted with a pre- designed questionnaire. The questionnaire consists of both structural and unstructured question. The question was designed for dealers and retailers.

Secondary Data:

There is not much research work done on the subject. As such, sources of secondary data were very much limited. However, some data were available in the organization data bank, internet, brochures etc. A thorough survey of all these were done to findout the useful information.

Data Analysis

Subjective Analysis: Qualitative data was analysed using judgment, guidance of the supervisors and knowledge.

1.7 Limitations of the Study

The main limitation of this research might be the access to the sensitive internal information about the organization. Organizations do not disclose the information or make it public. The other limitation of data error, random sampling errors, administrative errors, data processing error, interviewer error,time constraint, data integrity, cost of the research are considered and addressed with due weight.

While doing this research we faced the following limitations-

- I did not get positive attitude to conduct survey on individual information from respondents.
- Difficult to survey all over the country.
- Heavy workload at office was one of the main barriers of this study and additional time for doing the survey could hardly be extracted.
- The Large sample size could detect the problems more accurately.
- Lacking of practical skills.
- Information is not up date.
- Some provide wrong information.

LITERATURE REVIEW

2.1 Literature Review

There are insufficient studies and literature in the context of frozen food marketing and their expansion in Bangladesh. As a result, a few available published literatures have been reviewed for developing the research questions and objectives of the study.

The Marketing Mix

The marketing mix is one of the most dominant though ts in modern marketing (Kotleretal., 1999) which presents the marketer with a depot of controllable tactical marketing tools to indicatively compete in the new market-place and for delivering attractive market reaction in a target market. The marketing mix concept is credited to Jerome McCarthy (1960) who condensed Borden's (1953) twelve components and conceptualized them as the 4Ps; Product, Price,Place and Promotion (Goi, 2009; Constant in ides, 2006; Anderson and Taylor, 1995; Van Waterschoot and Van den Bulte, 1992). McCarthy then analyzed these composite components within the framework of marketing manager with the consumer at the focal point of the entire process (Anderson and Taylor,1995).

4Ps Model in the Marketing Mix

Product

According to Kotler and Armstrong (2006), product can be defined as anything that can be offered to a market for consideration, procurement, use or utilization thatmayfulfill a need or want of a consumer. It must give value to a consumer, however, does not need to be substantial in the meantime and essentially,it includes presenting new products or improving the current products (Booms and Bitner, 1981). Ferrell (2005) has opined that the product is the core of the marketing mix strategy where retailers can offer unique attributes that differentiates their product from their competitors. Product quality is one of the marketer's major positioning tools and quality has a direct impact on product or service performance (Kotler*et al.*, 2008). Since perceived product quality and brand image in a roundabout way affect buying aims (Keining ham*et al.*, 2005), brand and quality confirmation are chosen for the risk adjusting technique referencing product.

Price

Kotler*et al.* (2008) have defined price as the amount of money charged for a product or service or the aggregate of the values that clients exchange for the benefits of getting or using the product or service. Price can influence customer decision in a buy since the customer perceives exchange something of value–the price to have something of value i.e. the benefits (Kotler and Keller, 2006). Verma and Varma (2003) have opined that price is generally the adaptable elements to change contrasted with other elements of marketing mix. Companies frequently modify the fundamental price of a product to represent different client contrasts and evolving circumstances (Hunt, 2005). Price promotion is seen as better value to the customer in the general circumstance, since low price presumably pulls in clients (Fleischmann*et al.*, 2004, Yee*et al.*, 2005). Price is the most important measurement of repurchase intentions (Oh, 2000; Para sura man and Grewal, 2000) and customers usually buy products on the basis of price rather than other attributes (Peter and Donnely, 2007) where money back guarantees are additionally helpful (Yeung and Yee, 2003).

Place

It alludes to the place where the customers can purchase the product and the product contacts that place through various channels, like wholesalers, retailers and internet (Booms and Bitner, 1981) as a set of interdependent organizations that caters to the process of making a product available to the consumers (Kotler and Armstrong, 2006). Hirankitti*et al.* (2009) have considered place as the simple entry which potential client partners to a service; for example, location and distribution. The strategy of place needs effective distribution of the firm's products among the channels of marketing like wholesalers or retailers (Berman, 1996). It should pay attention to how it can deliver the product at the right time and at the right place, and which channel should be used to deliver the product (Copley, 2004).

Promotion

Promotion comprises of a particular mix of advertising, sales promotion, personal selling and public relations that convey the benefits of the product and persuade target customers to purchase it (Kotler and Armstrong, 2006). A communication program plays three vital roles such as providing needed information and suggestion, inducing target customers of the benefits of a particular product, and encouraging them to take action at particular circumstances that are important in marketing strategies (Lovelock and Wright, 2002). However, the more the customers' perceived risk in purchasing a product, specifically when information is inadequate with regards to the greater the propensity to utilize word- of-mouth (Pocharski and Jacobson, 2007).

The focus of Cascade Tissue Group's philosophy is innovation and sustainability on every product ion level,coming from research team or an employee,' says Suzanne Blanchet, President and CEO at Cascades Tissue Group. The extent of thoughts is very boundless from straightforward methods for diminishing compressed air consumption, savings on the heating bill because of a superior insulation or utilizing energy saving lighting, to more propelled solutions originating from collaboration with Boralex, the Cascade's partner inbiogas applications (Ng,2011).

According to AC Nielsen's report published in April 2010, bathroom tissue and towel combined, Cascades Enviro brand is the no. 1 brand in the green segment that represents 12% of the aggregate market (Ng, 2011).

A current real improvement has been the trend toward diminished weight per product sheet lessening the span of the sheet and premise weight decreases without a price change and this trend has quickened since 2003, and keeping in mind that it may not totally stop, there are points of confinement to how much the fiber contents can be reduced (Kalil, 2008).

Both cultural and market differences between the US and Western Europe add to this trend, including the more progressed away from home tissue sector in the US, the generally positive attitude towards consuming and shopping, the more extensive assortment of tissue merchandise accessible, solid advancement of brands; and demographic/housing differences profiting US tissue utilization over that of Western Europe (Kalil, 2008).

In Japan, the Wash let a toilet that comes outfitted with a bidet and an air-blower isbecoming progressively popular. Everywhere throughout the world, water stays a standout amongst the most well-known techniques for self-cleaning. Many places in India, the Middle East and Asia,for example,still rely on upon a bucket and aspigot.Inany case, as our economy continues to circle the drain, will Americans part with their beloved tissue paper so as to receive more money-saving measures (McRobbie, 2009).

Reviewing the above-mentioned different literatures, the present study has focused on the following research questions:

1. What is the application of the concept of 4Ps Model of McCarthy product, price, place (distribution), and promotion as controllable tactical marketing tools for the effective marketing of eco- friendly and hygienic brand like Meghna Group food Bangladesh especially in Dhaka city?
2. How is the concept of 4Ps Model of McCarthy (product, price, place, and promotion) applied or used in the marketing of environment friendly and hygienic frozen food in Bangladesh especially in case of the brand- Meghna Group food?

Therefore, a significant gap exists in the literature as no attempt has been made to look at the application of 4Ps model of McCarty, i.e. the marketing mix framework in the tissue paper marketing of Bangladesh specially in the branding of Meghna Group. As a result, the purpose of this study is to fill this gap in the literature by adding a new viewpoint to the marketing mix phenomenon by looking at the use of 4Ps model of McCarty in the marketing of Sales Development process in Bangladesh Meghna Group Sales development of Bangladesh

2.1 Definition of Sales Development

Developing an effective sales strategy often requires consumer research, marketing analytics and a framework that organizes the customer's needs by their place in the sales process. If you're involved in sales or marketing, learning ways to map your potential customers' purchase journey can help you improve your promotional and service strategies, which might lead to greater profit and higher customer retention rates. One method of mapping the customer sales cycle is by using Kotler's five A's. In this article, we define Kotler's five A's framework, explain each stage in the process and provide tips for using this system.

2.2 History

The concept of sales development can be traced back as far as the early 1980s, with roots at Oracle. The original Oracle Direct team (DMD), started by Anneke Seley in the early 1980s, is among the earliest sales development teams on record. Throughout the 1980s and 1990s, it has been one of the key organizational strategies for most famous B2B technology companies, including Sun Microsystems, and Cisco. [1] In the late 1990s the sales development role was developed within Computer Associates as a bridge between sales and marketing groups Al though every organization engages in recruiting activity some do so to a much largerextent than others.

2.3 Strategic Marketing

Strategic marketing is a marketing process that outlines how a company can take a different position through diversification based on its assets, capabilities and experience in changing market conditions by developing different strategies. That is, strategic marketing is finding potential or actual market competitive advantages and leveraging resources to ensure that those advantages are taken. (1) Strategies developed in strategic marketing are: product strategy, pricing strategy, distribution strategy and promotion strategy.

2.4 Strategic Marketing Process:

Strategic development Nuvola apps forward arrow.svg Go-to-market strategies and a series of steps in the strategic marketing process

Application management

A series of steps in the strategic marketing process

Step 1: Strategic Situation Analysis

When an organization undertakes to adopt a tailored marketing strategy, it is important to consider several factors

Such as:

(i) Knowing and understanding the commodity market is very important. This will lead to realism in market related planning. Besides, it gives an idea about the strengths and limitations of the competitors. At this time, it is important to do SWOT Analysis or Strength-Weakness-Opportunity-Threat analysis of the organization.

(ii)As it is not possible to satisfy all the buyers in the market, it is necessary to separate certain buyers from all buyers (market segmentation). Because if you can't identify the right buyers, it becomes impossible to survive in the market.

(iii)Always be aware of the market. Because the market is constantly changing and the needs of the market buyers are also changing. So, the more one knows about the changing market, the easier it is to take a position in the market.

Step 2: Design the market strategy

Strategy design is most important in strategic marketing. Because on the basis of this design, the strategic marketing outline will be confirmed. Here are the things to do:

(i)In order to adopt a strategic plan suitable for the target market, on the one hand, product value changes should be considered, and on the other hand, the product should become a problem-solving object for the customer.

(ii)A strategy for developing relationships with all parties related to marketing, namely suppliers, distributors, buyers etc., has to be formulated.

(iii)New product planning is essential so that the company can market new products at the declining stage of the product life cycle.

Step 3: Develop market-oriented activities

Developing market-oriented activities is quite complex and at this stage the marketer adopts different strategies to take market position. At the very beginning the product strategy has to be adopted. After determining the product strategy, it is necessary to determine the distribution strategy. The distribution strategy must ensure distribution in an easy way. Then the price of the product has to be determined. A product pricing strategy must set a standard but customer-friendly price. Promotion strategy is adopted to bring this product to the target market. That is, the strategy is adopted to make the brand acceptable to the buyer as a whole.

Step 4: Implementation and Management of Market-Oriented Strategy:

Once a market-orientated strategy is formulated, the organization benefits from it when it is possible to implement and manage it. In this case, the organization has to keep two things in mind:

(i)Market-oriented organizations succeed only when people can be engaged in the necessary work. Creating an effective market-oriented organization by hiring the right people for the organization's work is one of the steps in implementing a market-oriented strategy

(ii)Marketing plan and budget has to be formulated to implement and implement the market-oriented strategy. Apart from implementing the plan, it also needs to be controlled. There should be a mechanism for correcting any deviations from the plan.

By following all these steps, the company can face its competition and develop the marketing more successfully

5.1 Findings

Several types of problems have created barrier to conduct this study. The limitations of the study are as follows:

1. It has not been possible to spend more time in interaction with the respondents for gathering more insight investigation.
2. Due to non-availability of sampling frame for identifying the population for the study, the non-probability convenience sampling technique has been used to select small sample size.
3. Theoretical arguments underlying the conceptualization are not up to them ark due to scarcity of previous research findings relevant to the present study in the context of Bangladesh.
4. Due to time and monetary constraints, it has also not been possible to explore more area of concern pertaining to the study.
5. Despite the level best effort, this study is not fully free of certain understandable limitations.
6. This study is an exploratory study on marketing mix strategy of Meghna Group products.This study has been conducted depending on only 50 customers and 30 retailers of Meghna Group products as respondents selected from Dhanmondi and Gulshan areas of Dhaka city using convenience sampling technique. So, the result of the study cannot be generalized. For the purpose of the study, a long period of time is needed for its in-depth analysis. But unfortunately, the study did not have so long time that could make the study more extensive and complete.
7. However, there is a scope for conducting more comprehensive qualitative and quantitative studies focusing not only on Dhaka city but also other cities of Bangladesh with rigorous statistical analysis in future by the interested researcher sin this field of study.
