Executive Summary

IDLC is one of renewed Non-Banking financial institution in Bangladesh. It started its operation at 1985 and it is the pioneer financial institution in Bangladesh. IDLC has different kinds of products and services. IDLC Finance is the mother company, and it has two separated subsidiaries and they are IDLC Investment Limited (IDLCIL), and IDLC Securities Limited (IDLCSL).

Human resources are the most important resource of every organization to gain a sustainable competitive advantage over competitors. To manage these human resources there are several practices that are used globally by different organizations to create a competent workforce. These HR Practices are a set of principles that is used as a potential contributor to find suitable personnel for and improve their commitment, productivity and loyalty toward the company.

This report contains the summery of Human Resource practices followed by IDLC Securities Ltd and how its importance to improve their manpower. The analysis is based on my journey as an Intern of Human Resource Department.

Our bookish knowledge tells us that, in theory there are practices like HRP, Recruitment & Selection, Compensation & Benefit, Training & Development, and Performance Management, sums up as HR Practices. There are sets of different versions and uses of these theories. But my experience tells me, not many organizations follow those bookish theories. They tend to modify them, update them and even just drop them when necessary.

In my report, I modestly tried to uphold all the HR activities and practices conducted and followed by IDLC, find the flaws which are drawing them back and make some recommendation which may better their situation.

Chapter: 03 Theoretical Framework

3.1 Human Resource Management

Human Resource Management (HRM) is the practice of recruiting, hiring, deploying & planning, managing an organization's employees. HRM is often referred to simply as human resources (HR). It may feel a bit weird to refer to people as human resources. Human Resources are all the people that in one capacity or another work for or contribute to an organization. These people make up a company's workforce. They can be regular employees, for example, but also contractors. Especially with the rise of the gig economy, more and more people are starting to work for an organization on a contract basis without having a traditional labor contract. These people include independent contractors, workers provided by contract firms, on-call workers, and temporary help agency workers.

An independent contractor can be under contract for years at the same organization, while an agency worker can work at 20 different companies throughout one year. Because these people are all involved in the company to a different extent, the way they are managed and involved in the organization should also be different. In addition, there are increasingly non-humans at work at the company. In this case, we're talking about the increase in robotization. Robots are increasingly involved in day-to-day work and the interaction between man and machine is becoming increasingly essential to the success of the organization. Although these machines are not considered 'human resources', there is a case to be made that they should be included in some way as they are part of the workforce.

3.1.1 The Seven HR Basics

When we talk about Human Resource Management, there are a number of elements that are considered cornerstones for effective HRM policies. These cornerstones are:

- 1. Recruitment & selection.
- 2. Performance management.
- 3. Learning & development.
- 4. Succession planning.
- 5. Compensation and benefits.
- 6. Human Resources Information Systems.
- 7. HR data and analytics.

3.2 Human Resource Functions

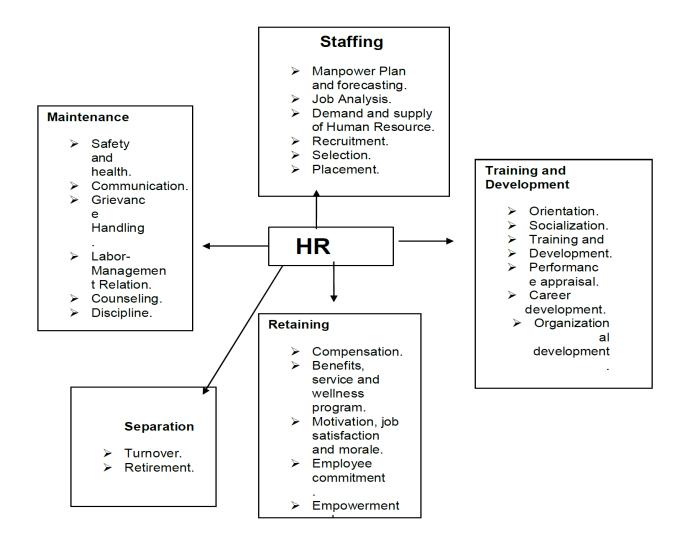

The role of human resource management is to plan, develop, and administer policies and programs designed to make expeditious use of an organization's human resources. It is that part of management which is concerned with the people at work and with their relationship within an enterprise. Its objectives are:

- > The effective utilization of human resources.
- > Desirable working relationships among all members of the organization.
- Maximum individual development.

The major functional areas in human resource management are:

- ➤ Planning.
- > Staffing.
- > Employee Development.
- > Employee Maintenance.

3.3 Human Resource Planning & Forecasting

Human Resources use forecasting to predict the organization's future demands for people and for jobs. Major factors to be examined are the company's objective (growth, construction, status quo) and the employment history of the company (retirements, resignations, terminations, and death). The combination of these two sources results in an initial forecast of personnel needs.

Human Resource Management (HRM) is the function within an organization that focuses on recruitment of, management of, and providing direction for the people who work in the organization. It is the process of procuring, developing, maintaining and compensating a given workforce. HRM is the set of organizational activities directed at attracting, developing, maintaining an effective workforce to achieve the organizational objective effectively and efficiently.

Human Resource planning has traditionally been used by organizations to ensure that the right person is in the right job at the right time. Under past conditions of relative environmental certainty and stability, human resource planning focused on the short term and was dictated largely by line management concerns. As human resource planners involve themselves in more programs to serve the needs of the business, and even influence the direction of the business, they face new and increased responsibilities and challenges.

Succession planning is the process of planning contingencies in case of key employees leaving the company. If, for example, a crucial senior manager quits his/her job, having a replacement ready will guarantee continuity and can save the company significant money. Succession planning is often based on performance ratings and L&D efforts. This results in the creation of a talent pipeline. This is a pool of candidates who are qualified and ready to fill (senior) positions in case of someone leaving. Building and nurturing this pipeline is key to good people management.

3.3.1 Manpower Planning

Manpower Planning which is also called as Human Resource Planning consists of putting right number of people, right kind of people at the right place, right time, doing the right things for which they are suited for the achievement of goals of the organization. Human Resource Planning has got an important place in the arena of industrialization. Human Resource Planning has to be a system approach and is carried out in a set procedure. The procedure is as follows:

- ➤ Analyzing the current manpower inventory.
- ➤ Making future manpower forecasts.
- Developing employment program.
- > Design training programs.

3.3.2 Steps in Manpower Planning

- 1. Analyzing the Current Manpower Inventory: Before a manager makes forecast of future manpower, the current manpower status has to be analyzed. For this the following things have to be noted-
 - Type of organization.
 - Number of departments.
 - Number and quantity of such departments.
 - Employees in these work units.

Once these factors are registered by a manager, he goes for the future forecasting.

2. Making Future Manpower Forecasts: Once the factors affecting the future manpower forecasts are known, planning can be done for the future manpower requirements in several work units.

The Manpower forecasting techniques commonly employed by the organizations are as follows:

- Expert Forecasts: This includes informal decisions, formal expert surveys and Delphi technique.
- Trend Analysis: Manpower needs can be projected through extrapolation (projecting past trends), indexation (using base year as basis), and statistical analysis (central tendency measure).
- Work Load Analysis: It is dependent upon the nature of work load in a department, in a branch or in a division.
- Work Force Analysis: Whenever production and time period have to be analyzed, due allowances have to be made for getting net manpower requirements.
- Other Methods: Several Mathematical models, with the aid of computers are used to forecast manpower needs, like budget and planning analysis, regression, new venture analysis.
- 3. Developing Employment Programs: Once the current inventory is compared with future forecasts, the employment programs can be framed and developed accordingly, which will include recruitment, selection procedures and placement plans.
- 4. Design Training Programs: These will be based upon extent of diversification, expansion plans, development programs, etc. Training programs depend upon the extent of improvement in technology and advancement to take place. It is also done to improve upon the skills, capabilities, knowledge of the workers.

3.3.3 Activities Involved in Manpower Planning

The activities are which is involved in manpower planning, they are given below:

- Identifying and designing current and planned organization structure of the organization.
- Estimating current and future workload for different functions and organizational units in the organization, and, based on that, estimating the current and future total requirement of people to fill the various positions of different types and at different levels.
- Developing profile or specifications for people to fill the various positions identified.
- Taking an inventory of existing employees in the company, and their capabilities.
- Comparing the manpower requirements and availability to determine the additional people required in the organization at different times. While working out this requirement, suitable provision is made for likely attribution of some of the existing employees. Similarly, while examining capability requirements of employee's consideration is given to on the development of skill and capability of people with work experience. This activity results in identification of the total additional manpower requirements to be fulfilled by various means.
- Determining, the means of acquiring the additional required manpower through various means such as external recruitment, internal transfers and promotions, and training.
- Preparing recruitment plan.
- Preparing training plan.

3.3.4 Importance of Manpower Planning

Manpower planning is very important in HRM sector. Some of important point is describing below:

- Key to Managerial Functions: The four managerial functions, i.e., planning, organizing, directing and controlling are based upon the manpower. Human resources help in the implementation of all these managerial activities. Therefore, staffing becomes a key to all managerial functions.
- Efficient Utilization: Efficient management of personnel becomes an important function in the industrialization world of today. Setting of large-scale enterprises require management of large-scale manpower. It can be effectively done through staffing function.

- Motivation: Staffing function not only includes putting right men on right job, but it also comprises of motivational programs, i.e., incentive plans to be framed for further participation and employment of employees in a concern. Therefore, all types of incentive plans become an integral part of staffing function.

Manpower Planning is a two-phased process because manpower planning not only analyses the current human resources but also makes manpower forecasts and thereby draw employment programs. Manpower Planning is advantageous to firm in following manner:

- Shortages and surpluses can be identified so that quick action can be taken wherever required.
- All the recruitment and selection programs are based on manpower planning.
- It also helps to reduce the labor cost as excess staff can be identified and thereby overstaffing can be avoided.
- It also helps to identify the available talents in a concern and accordingly training programs can be chalked out to develop those talents.
- It helps in growth and diversification of business. Through manpower planning, human resources can be readily available and they can be utilized in best manner.
- It helps the organization to realize the importance of manpower management which ultimately helps in the stability of a concern.

3.3.6 Objectives of Human Resource Planning

• To recruit and retain the human resource of required quality and quantity.

- To foresee the employee turnover and make the arrangements for minimizing turnover and filling up of consequent vacancies.
- To meet the needs of the programs of expansion, diversification.
- To foresee the impact of technology on work, existing employees and future human resource requirements.

- To estimate the cost of human resources.

3.4 Recruitment and Selection

This Recruitment and Selection Policy has been framed with the view of recruiting and selecting people who have a strong desire to achieve the company's vision, and who will assist in achieving the business results. Actually, not a day goes by that a worker does not leave and a new one is not hired. But there are many criterions to be considered as there is the issue of strikes due to various reasons. Then there is the problem of people leaving after getting their payment. The female labors are given more priority for recruitment as during strikes they are less physical than the males. Recruitment is the process of searching the candidates for employment and stimulating them to apply for jobs in the organization whereas selection involves of the series.

3.4.1 Purpose of Recruitment Process

The recruitment process is one of the most fundamental value-added HR Processes. The recruitment is especially critical for managers in the organization. The managers use the recruitment process intensively, and satisfaction with Human Resources is mostly about the satisfaction with the recruitment process.

The recruitment process is sensitive to the external and internal changes, and it can be used as the best indicator for the future HR trends. By careful analysis of HR Recruitment Measures, the HR Management team can predict the trends in the job market simply.

3.4.2 Main Recruitment Process Goals

The recruitment process is designed to staff the organization with the new employees, and it uses many different recruitment sources to attract the right talent in the defined quality and within a defined time.

The recruitment process has several goals:

- Find the best talents for the vacancies.
- Manage the recruitment sources.
- Manage the vacancies in the organization.
- Run the internal recruitment process.
- Building the strong HR Marketing platform.
- Co-operation with local and international universities.
- Provide feedback about the trends in the job market.

Most recruitment goals are not visible to managers directly, and they use just sourcing of the job candidates as the main outcome from the recruitment process. HR has to use the other outcomes from the recruitment process as it is the source of valuable information.

3.4.3 Finding the Best Talents on the job Market

This is the most important goal of the recruitment process. The HR Recruiters are paid for delivering the candidates to managers, who make the final decision about hiring a new employee. The organizations are fighting for the best talents in the job market. HR Recruiters have to develop the competitive approaches to make the attractive job offers. The candidates select the organization, which is recognized for being modern and competitive. The job adverts and job offer have to reflect this.

The managers love to hire the best employees available on the job market. They love to interview motivated job candidates. The role of HR is to describe the real need to the manager. Many times, the best job candidate is not the appropriate job candidate.

3.4.4 Recruitment Sources Management

The recruitment sources management is an extremely significant goal of the recruitment process. The recruitment sources deliver the candidates for the selection procedure in the organization. The better the candidates are; the higher quality job candidates can be hired. The proper management of the recruitment sources has a significant impact on the competitive advantage of the organization.

The better employees do not have to be more expensive, but the organization has to manage the recruitment sources to attract the high-quality job candidates.

3.4.5 Building the Strong Internal Recruitment Process

The external recruitment is not the only goal of the recruitment process. Building the strong internal recruitment helps the organization to keep the best talents in the organization. The employees have a chance to apply for a new job position, and they can change their career path. The internal recruitment is a difficult HR topic as the managers have to allow their best employees to take a new role within the organization. The role of Human Resources is in allowing the best employees to rotate and in supporting the managers in developing the successors.

- Initial Screening: After collecting CV from various sources the second important thing is initial screening. In this stage, the important task is to select the eligible resume and deselect the unqualified resume. This initial screening is being conduct based on the company's requirement. Company looks for the several requirements, say for example;
 - ✓ Educational Background.
 - ✓ Education Institute.
 - ✓ Related Job Experience.

3.5 Training & Development

Training refers to a planned effort of a company to facilitate the learning of job-related knowledge, skills or behavior of employees. The goal of training efforts is for employees to master the knowledge, skills or ability emphasized by training programs and to apply it in organization day-to-day activities. In garments sector training is a very crucial issue as the whole industry is very labor oriented. In UML there is a training center where the new recruits are trained and given proper instructions of how to carry out the operations and complete the order.

It requires a lot of skill to carry out the operations and has to be fast to meet the deadlines. In this company the deadlines are very strict. If the deadlines are not met then it can result in a horrific conclusion such as the cancellation of the order and losing buyers and having to sell the products at a very cheaper price locally. For such reasons training both onsite and outside hold a lot of value. Onsite training also plays a big part as well as the employees have to operate lots of machineries and require very technical skills.

3.5.1 Training

- It's not where you want to go, but it knows how to gate there.
- It's not how high you want to rise, but it knows how to take off.
- It may not be quite the outcome you were aiming for, but it will be an outcome.
- It's not what you dream of doing bat it's having the knowledge to do it.
- It's not a set of goals, but it's more like a vision.

Training is about knowing where you sand (no matter how good or bad the current situation looks) at present and where you will be after some point of time, training is about acquisition of knowledge, skill and abilities (KSA) through professional development.

3.5.2 Learning

Learning has been described as a relatively permanent change in behavior that occurs as a result of practice or experience. It may be simply a sustain (unlearning a bad habit) or it may be a modification (adjusting new knowledge to old). What is learning is gradually change. The learning behavior differs from one another that is selective.

There are some principles of learning can be found which are:

- Learning is individual.
- Motivation is the key.

- "Feedback" to learner is important.

3.5.3 Employee Orientation

But now the scenario seems to be changing.
- ➤ The Modern Approach: The modern approach of training and development is that Bangladeshi Organizations have realized the importance of corporate training. Development is the process of increasing efficiency and changing behavioral pattern or mentality toward particular issues for the achievement of organizational objectives. That is, any attempt to improve current or future management performance by imparting knowledge, changing attitude or increasing skills is called development. Development involves in attaining the long-term efficiency in the workplace that is getting the benefit in future rather than the present improvement in certain skill.

If employees struggle to perform well in certain areas, learning and development can help to improve their performance. Learning & development (L&D) is led by HR and good policies can be very helpful in advancing the organization towards its long-term goals. Many organizations have pre-defined budgets for L&D efforts. This budget is then distributed amongst employees, with trainees, future leaders, and other high potentials often receiving more training opportunities than others.

3.6 Performance Evaluation

The method of evaluating an employee's performance which involves tracking, evaluating and giving feedback on actual performance based on key behaviors/competencies established in the goals that support the achievement of the overall organizational mission.

Once employees are on board, performance management becomes important. Performance management is the second HR basic. It involves helping people to perform better in their jobs. Usually, employees have a defined set of responsibilities that they need to take care of. Performance management is a structure that enables employees to get feedback on their performance – with the goal to reach a better performance. Examples are formal one-on-one performance reviews, 360-degree feedback instruments that also takes into account the evaluation of peers, clients, and other relations, and more informal feedback. Usually, companies work with an annual performance management cycle, which involves planning, monitoring, reviewing, and rewarding employee performance. The outcome of this process enables the categorization of employees in high vs. low performers and high vs. low potentials.

Successful performance management is very much a shared responsibility between HR and management, where usually the direct manager is in the lead and HR supports. Good performance management is crucial, as employees who consistently underperform may not be a good fit with the company and/or culture and may have to be let go. This is also one of the basic responsibilities of HR.

3.7 Compensation & Benefit

Another one of the HR basics is compensation and benefits. Fair compensation is key in motivating and retaining employees. Compensation can be split up in primary compensation and secondary compensation. Primary compensation involves directly paid money for work, which often is a monthly salary and sometimes performance-based pay. Secondary benefits are all non-monetary rewards. This can include extra holidays, flexible working times, day-care, pensions, a company car and laptop, and much more. The goal here is to reward people in ways that motivate them. They pragmatically share their knowledge and experience of wider reward good practices and specific sector-based challenges to generate the most appropriate solution for their employees. Reviewing current pay structure and identification of reward design principles in the context of best practices. Review internal equity issue. Analysis market going rate and trends to address external competitiveness. Developing options in the salary & benefits area of Total Reward.

Performance Appraisal & Management

4.14 Performance Appraisal

Performance appraisals can benefit employees and organizations by clarifying goals and expectations, and creating an environment of open communication. The best performance appraisals offer positive feedback and advice for improvement and typically consist of a conversation between the management and the employees. IDLC is a performance-driven enterprise. IDLC performance appraisal is the single-most important tool that enables the Company to measure the performance of an individual and plan his/ her career progression accordingly. At IDLC, the sole motive of the performance appraisal system is to maximize efficiency of the Company's objectives with the guidance to achieve each member's career aspirations. The performance appraisal system is fully structured to assess the competency of all full-time employees. This extensive process starts with the circulation of appraisal forms, approved by the management.

Performance Management

- Job objective-based Performance Appraisal Introduction of KPI based performance appraisal for Business staffs in IDLCSL.
- o Performance Bonus.

Performance Management

IDLC has a strong HR cultural. Being a local company, it has its own way of evaluation. Through different formats of evaluation, they measure their employee's performance. Participant diary and observation these two methods are applied for evaluation. After evaluation using some matrices comes out the performance appraisal of employees. Then it is decided whether the employee needs more training sessions or developments. IDLC tries to maintain a fair evaluation process. The employees are evaluated twice a year. The employees first assess themselves and the final evaluation is based on discussion with the supervisors. If the employees have any objection to their evaluation, they can mention it in their evaluation sheet. Although these systems are in place, employees rarely mention it in their evaluation sheet as they may think it would deteriorate their relationship with the supervisor.

The areas of evaluation are performance, Capability, Responsibility and attitude. Depend on this evaluation performance employees are getting benefited, this performance reflected in annual review of salary & consideration for promotion.

IDLC follows all the function, steps and process of performance appraisal and they follow the strategy fully. They try to develop their employee performance evaluation is being done by HR department twice a year.

Promotion opportunities are the life-blood of staffing and retention. Without the proper use of incentives and coaching, employees are likely to refrain from maintaining relationships with a business for an extended period of time. Competitors take the best talent from other companies by offering individuals enhanced pay and benefits. Promotions and bonuses to the personnel help in ensuring that they do not feel the need to leave their employers.

4.20 Organization Development

Succession Planning

IDLC's management possesses succession plans to provide leadership continuity and avoid extended and costly vacancies in key positions, recognizing that changes in management are inevitable. Succession plan is designed to identify and prepare candidates for high-level management positions that become vacant due to retirement, resignation, death or new business opportunities. It is IDLC's policy to assess the leadership needs of the Company in a way that ensures the selection of qualified leaders which matches its mission and goals.

- ✓ Succession Planning
- ✓ Key Resources Identification & Retention

Succession planning is intended to support and provide a framework in the following broad areas:

- Determine pivotal positions and identify and prepare immediate back up to deal with short-term vacancies in those positions
- Develop viable internal candidates to fill vacancies
- Project future changes in the organizational staffing needs and changing competency requirements based on institutional goals and workforce trends and predictions
- Develop promising leaders through comprehensive training, mentoring and performance management programs, and facilitate individual career development plans
- Active development of longer-term successors through ensuring their careers progress, and by making sure they get the range of work experiences they need for the future
- Encouraging a culture of "progression" through developing employees who are seen as a 'business resource' and who share key skills, experiences and values seen as important to the future of the business

Of the above objectives, it is the active development of a strong 'talent pool' for the future which is often viewed as the most important. Increasingly, this is also seen as vital to the attraction and retention of the 'best' people in IDLC.

This plan must be able to satisfy the company's objectives in three perspectives:

Focused Group of Succession Planning in IDLC

- Divisional Heads
- Departmental Heads
- Branch Managers
- Unit Heads
- Other Key Positions

Process Followed for Succession Planning

It is obvious that the concerned Departmental/Divisional Heads are the most accurate source of information about his/her own successors. Subsequently,

- Human Resources Department circulated a form (attached as Annexure-I) among the concerned employees.
- The respective employee, after a thorough analysis carefully selected his/her successor and duly completed the form for their respective department/ division
- Forwarded the forms to the Human Resources Department for obtaining appropriate approvals and act accordingly.
- Human Resources Department set the final plan by seating with the individual divisional head.

Chapter: 05 Findings

5.1 Findings

Contributing to the quality and exponential growth of the company through attracting, developing and retaining Talent in a healthy work environment with ample opportunities to learn, grow and excel.

- ✓ Recruiting the most suitable candidates and the right number of people for optimal use of Human Resources of the Company.
- ✓ Assessing employees' training need and oversee the training and development programs to build as killed and superior workforce.
- ✓ Managing the Performance Appraisal system for measuring employees' individual performance to reward accordingly.
- ✓ Developing and documenting Human Resources policies beneficial to both the employee and Company.
- ✓ Coordinating and overseeing implementation of services, policies and programs through the members of Human Resources Department and identifying opportunities for improvement and resolves any discrepancies.
- ✓ Designing, directing and managing a companywide process of organization devel opment that dresses issues such as succession planning, rotation of job, key employee identification and retention etc.

Highlighting the benefits of HR module system: Most time maximum employees are unaware of how to apply for leave request or how to download pay slip from system. There is minimum tendency for request leave application through online system rather employee send email to their supervisor for leave approval. Later HR officer print out the email copy or took down note and later on adjusted in system. Most time employee failed to view accurate casual/earned leave status in system as the fully depend on HRD manual leave status. So strong recommendation for arrange a training session on "Self-service HR module system" and system modification.

Upgraded attendance software: Manual tracking of leave application questioned the usefulness of existing attendance tracking system. So, selecting the right system is mandatory. Employee leave request could not able to merge with satellite gateway system. As HR office manual track down the leave request in paper. Later on, adjusted the leave request in separate excel sheet.

Chapter: 06 Recommendations & Conclusion

6.1 Recommendations

IDLC Securities Limited is such an organized institution that there are very few things to recommend them. There are lots of renowned securities companies who are trying hard to improving themselves. According to my analysis IDLC is leading almost every aspect from the other competitors.

- ✓ Upgrade the daily attendance monitoring system because they are using employee's computer login time as their daily attendance. It may cause inefficiency because most of the company counts their employee's attendance by finger print or ID card screening. So, to improve the efficiency of the Human resource department, it needed to be upgrade otherwise accuracy will not be obtained.
- ✓ As they are advancing towards technological development automated leave management software should be installed because manual adjusting leave is raising the question from the employees about the accuracy to the HR department.
- ✓ Introduce "Succession Planning" as an annual recurring task of the Human Resources Department. It is recommended that this exercise be conducted at the time of year-end Performance Appraisal.
- ✓ Arrange training programs for all level of employees according to their need basis. Foreign training should be arranging more for the sake of encouragement to mid-level employees.
- ✓ Enhanced delegation of work at every level for their development to the next level.
- ✓ For internal departmental transfers, this should be communicating with the respective divisional/departmental head and negotiate transfer with proper timeline.
- ✓ Poor monitoring system through various departments because only way to monitor themselves is security camera or Lync Program.
- ✓ IDLC Securities need to go for more foreign training for maximum output from the employees. Promising employees are needed to send for more foreign training so that maximum effort can be given.
- ✓ Late attendance over 12 PM treated as leave as HR policy but system can't detect as leave so further modification required.
- ✓ Employee profile image not found in personal profile in HR module, so it can be added in the system.
- ✓ Employees must wear the ID card must be visible in office premises. It must be strictly followed. ID cards are for identity of a person and more over it is a part and parcel of HR policies. When we talk about professionalism, everything comes into play start in from the dress code, behavior, attitude and also the ID cards. It can be written down in Code and Conduct.
